

Long Ago

Read through the activities with your child. You can do all of the activities or choose the ones that they find the most interesting.

Activities

1. Look at photographs from when you were a baby and talk about the changes that have happened. Add photographs to the boxes below and answer the question.

Me as a baby

Me now

How have you changed since you were a baby?

2. Memories are things that we remember from the past. Talk about some of your special memories, then draw and write about them in the box below.

My special memories

3. We use words like first, then and next to order events and show the passing of time. Draw pictures or write simple sentences in the boxes to show the order you do things when getting ready for school in the morning.

first

then

next

4. Look at family photographs and talk about who is in the photographs and how you are related. Draw and label your family in the box below.

My family

Useful words

- auntie
- brother
- cousin
- dad
- grandad
- grandma
- grandparent
- mum
- sister
- uncle

5. Talk to your grandparents about their past. You could ask about where they lived, what games they played, who their friends were and what their school day was like.

When my grandparents were young...

6. Look at these phones. Label them oldest, old and modern.

How have phones changed over time, and how do people use modern phones compared to phones in the past?

7. Look at these toys from the past. Draw your favourite toy and say how it is similar to or different from toys from the past.

My favourite toy

8. Finish your home learning by explaining to an adult what you have learned about life in the past and changes over time.

What special memories can you remember from your past?

What was life like when your grandparents were children?

How have everyday objects changed over time?
